

Independent

16 August 2002

By Marie Woolf Chief Political Correspondent

The Health minister Hazel Blears has said she wants a programme she saw in Gloucester, where boys are taught about sex in a rugby club, to become a model. The scheme managed to get ooy teenagers, who would blanch at entering a sexual health clinic, to listen to advice on safe sex and contraception.